Back To Bates

Back to Bates is a weekend everyone looks forward to; present and past students alike. Recent alumni search for their Maine States and head for the land of The Goose as the older classes return to keep in touch with their evolving alma mater. The big yellow tent behind Ladd Library serves as a base for the weekend's many events.

Friday, former Batesies could attend an Alumni Council Luncheon, a panel discussion of Bates life today, as well as a piano quartet. (Let us not omit going to The Cage and Goosin'-it!)

Saturday, the on campus activities included an Alumni Volunteer breakfast, an alumni student 5k road race, an alumni water polo game and Conversations with the President. Lots of people checked out the day's sports activities against various opponents, and saw old friends. Saturday night brought many alumni to the rooms of old buddies in search of a mattress.

Sunday morning dawned as alumni squeezed back into their uniforms and tried their hands at the sports in which they usedto participate. With heavy hearts, after brunch, former Batesies left The Bubble to return to the real world and their normal every day activities.

Halloween Mania 1992

On the evening of October 31st, the Bates community experienced the annual CHC sponsored Halloween Party. However, this year, the event had a different location — the new and improved Gray Cage.

Happily there were no Nostradamus predictions of doom for a small New England college this year. Instead, most students put full concentration into their costumes. Most memorable guests included the Bishop and two very devout nuns, the nerd, the Bates College I.D. card, and the Budwieser beer can. We were also blessed by the presence of eight beauty queens from around the country. Even the dining hall staff got into the spirit of things. A woman covered with Reynolds Wrap greeted us at the door and there was a witch behind the food counter!

As always, CHC put on a great show including an advanced video projection system. The whole college enjoyed the traditional Halloween festivities including the changes for the better that made Halloween 1992 the best one yet.

It was six o'clock in the morning and about fifteen members of the Outing Club stumbled over to Commons to pack various vans, cars, and trucks with provisions for the Semi-Annual Bates Outing Club Clambake.

Rain fell throughout the cold morning. However, all those preparing for the event kept hoping that the adage "It never rains on clambake" would come true.

Outing Club members and students later that day found that it at least did not rain this year. By twelve o'clock, the sun was shining on the many tables of food lined up by the ocean at Reid State Park.

As cookers and servers handled the 500 lobsters and bushels of clams, members of the Bates community were able to relax on the beach, throw frisbees, go kayaking, and even do a little swimming. However, only a few brave souls entered the water willingly and the organizer of the clambake, Sarah Whitney '94, jumped in by her own free will instead of being thrown in by other Outing Club members as is tradition.

At about four o'clock in the afternoon, buses took most of the students back to campus except for the few cyclists that decided they would ride the twenty miles each way back to Bates. All the clambake workers then cleaned up and drove to the Brunswick Ben & Jerry's as a reward for their hard work and ate Vermonsters!

All in all, the day was a great success. Everyone will definitely look forward to the final clam bake of the year in the Spring!

Henrik Ibsen's Wild Duck

This fall the Bates drama department produced the play Wild Duck by Henrik Ibsen. The cast worked hard all fall and the show was performed November 6, 7,8,13,14, and 15. All who were able to attend one of the performances were impressed by the quality of the show.

The play was directed by faculty member Paul Kuritz and all actors were Bates students. The cast was comprised of thirteen members: Kim Munro, Volga Kurbanzade, Christian Gaylord, Joe Osheroff, Jeffrey Smithson, Bruce Gerry, Alissa Stangle, Christopher Mannel, Elliott Cummings, Jennifer Miercort, Bayne Gibby, James Cherry and Alexander Komlosi. The backstage crew was also primarily Bates students; they designed sets, costumes, and helped the show to run smoothly.

The play told the story about the Ekdal couple. There were lies, death, and much sadness, just what any good play needs. The story had a message about life and all who saw the show walked out of the theater with much to think about.

Above: Christian Gaylord and Bruce Gerry have aged through the wonderful science of makeup to look more like the characters they portrayed.
Center Top: Joe Osheroff and Alexander Komlosi backstage before the show.

Center Bottom: Jeff Smithson is not only a talented actor, but also a makeup artist, proven as he applies eyeliner before the show.

Arts at Bates

The Bates art department is small, but still impressive. Every year Bates' aspiring artists take classes and create many wonderful works. Some of the classes that are offered are drawing, painting, etching, hand building with clay, and color.

This fall there was a student art exhibition. Many art students got together and staged an exhibit of their works. There were drawings and paintings that showed off the students' various talents. Some of the best works included drawings of figures and landscapes in more traditional and abstract styles.

Many students complain about the difficulty in getting into the art classes at Bates. No one wants to get up at three in the morning for limited enrollment. However, eventually people are able to get into the small classes, and their talents are able to grow and expand.

Students not only study how to create here at Bates, but also are able to study art abroad. This year students are studying in Rome, Florence, and other parts of the world. These students are able to bring back the influence of other artists' from around the globe to Maine.

The Bates art department does not have many members or much space, but there is amazing talent and art produced as is illustrated by the following photos.

—Coffeehouses: A BatesTradition—

Coffeehouses are not only entertaining, but they have also become a tradition. Every year students gather together on random week nights to watch local performers or Bates students show off their talents. Other coffeehouses, such as the one before Christmas, take advantage of the season to show Christmas cartoons and serve hot chocolate.

Coffeehouses are a great opportunity for members of the college community to get together and socialize as well. There is the new student coffeehouse which is one of the first year students' first chances to meet other members of their class. There are also visiting student coffeehouses. My first Bates social experience was a coffeehouse when I was visiting during short term. I will never forget the show the now extinct group "Side Kicks" performed and all the wonderful singers I heard.

No one can graduate from Bates College without a few coffeehouse memories.

A Capella Talent: The Merimanders and the Deansmen

The Deansmen and Merimanders are Bates College's two a capella groups. The students who participate work hard all year round to create wonderful shows which show off the members' singing talents. The groups perform numerous times during the year. From the annual parents weekend show to Christmas coffeehouses to the spring concert, they are constantly performing. Possibly the most famous and unforgettable performance the two groups do every year is the annual caroling at the Wilson House Formal.

The Merimanders is a group made up of dedicated women. These women are Sheela Agarwal, Maggie Barber, Sheila Brennan, Hwashing Cheng, Sara Clough, Bayne Gibby, Beth Kimball, Sara Koehler, Nisha Koshy, Erin Leiman, Ing Voosen, Monika Wirtz and Telle Zeiler.

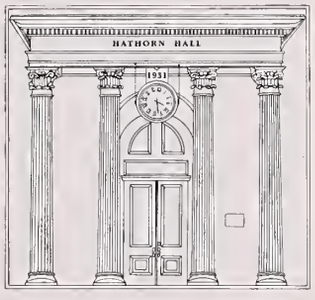
Professor Johnson with his son Michael Trey Moir Johnson.



Michael Jones
Associate Professor of the History Department

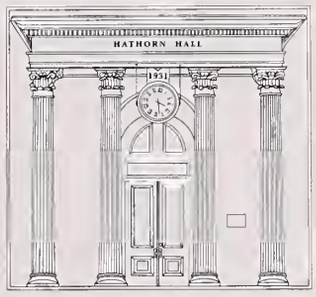
Professor Jones steers the Viking replica Munin in Norway in July, 1992.

Kathryn G. Low
Assistant Professor of the Psychology Department

Donald McCarthy
Visiting Associate Professor of the Mathematics Department

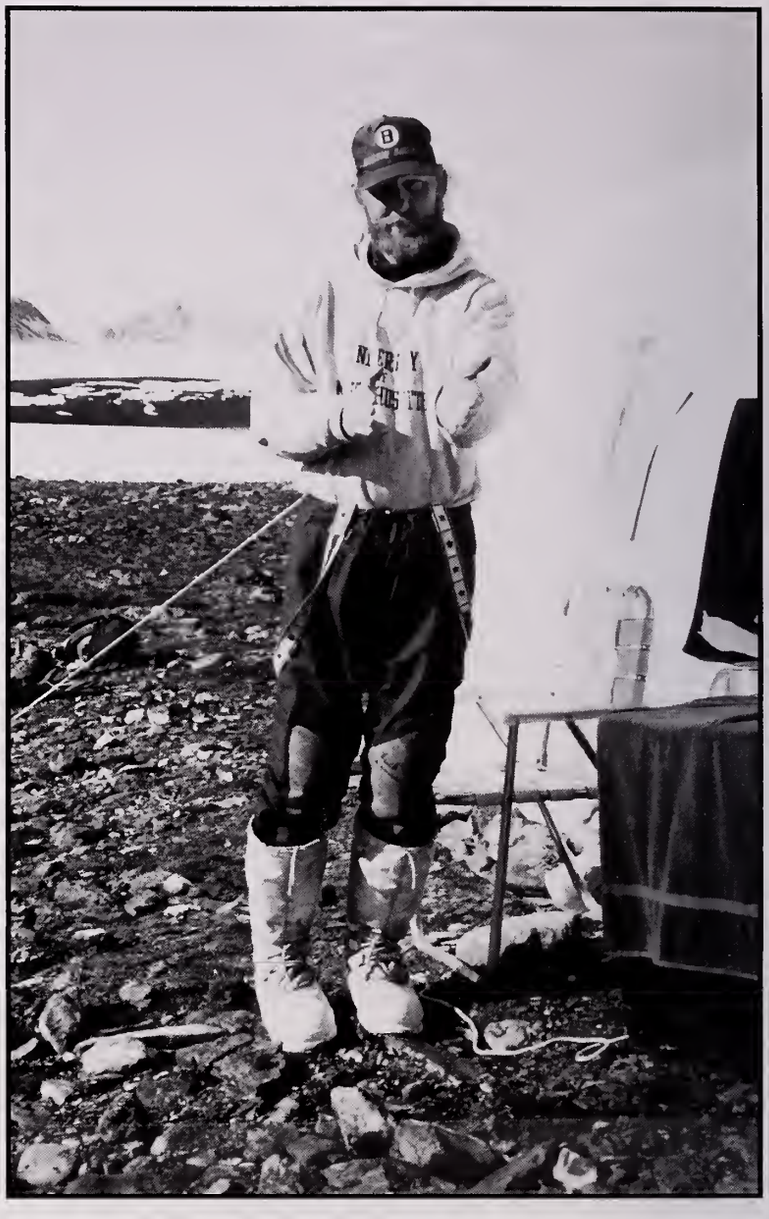
Professor McCarthy enjoys the early spring in the Maine woods.

Lois Ongley
Instructor of the Geology Department



Joseph Pelliccia
Associate Professor of the Biology Department

Professor Pelliccia sits at the controls of a Cessna 152. Earning a private pilot's license has been a life long dream for him and it finally came true in 1992. He comments, "There is no greater thrill than cruising over the beautiful fall foliage of Maine on a sunny autumn day!"



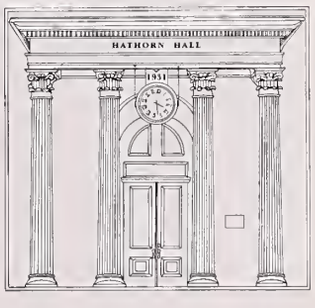
Michael J. Retelle
Assistant Professor of the Geology Department

Bonnie Shulman
Assistant Professor of the Mathematics Department

At an International Congress on Mathematics Education held in Quebec in the summer of 1992, Professor Shulman stands in front of her poster, a presentation of "Calculus for the Queasy," a first year seminar she teaches here at Bates.

John E. Smedley
Assistant Professor of the Physics and Astronomy Department

Professor Smedley enjoys spending time rocking and reading with his two children, Ian and Anna.



Robert Thomas
Professor of the Biology Deparment

Professor Thomas stands on the wharf at the University of California, Santa Cruz, his graduate school alma mater which he revisited last summer. A camera is close at hand for taking shots for "Nature Photography," a Short Term course.

Pilar Tirado
Lecturer of the Spanish Department

Professor Tirado enjoys her mountain bike whenever she can on Maine's fine dirt roads and trails. She particularly enjoyed exploring Acadia and the Moosehead Lake Region in early Fall.

Shuhui Yang
Instructor of Chinese in the Department of German, Russian, and East Asian Languages

Professor Yang attends Gorbachev's speech at Westminster College in Fulton, Missouri on May 6, 1992.

Richard Williamson
Professor of French in the Classical and Romance Languages Department

Professor Williamson visits a castle in Sauvion during his fall semester abroad.

Winter came to Bates unusually slow this year, with no lasting snowfall until the middle of January. But despite the fact that the hollowed acres of the Bates campus were not cloaked in a cover of white the winter festivities endured. Annual events, such as Winter Carnival, Wilson House Formal and the Puddle Jump were all attended with great enthusiasm. Winter changes included the completion of the new dorms, a great mid-winter Indigo Girls concert, and a triumphant season by several sports teams. Fortunately, the students enjoyed themselves even without an initial deep snowfall, and embraced this year's changes with open arms.

• NEW DORM CONSTRUCTION •

The 1991-1992 school year ended with the ground breaking ceremony for the new dorms. This year, we have been able to witness the growth of these three new living spaces. These new dorms will offer many wonderful opportunities for their residents. For example, since they are placed overlooking the athletic fields, those students living in either Village One, Two or Three will not have to leave their rooms to watch future FIGHTING BOBCATS sporting events. Thanks to the following photo sequence taken by Gene Clough, the construction of these buildings which constitute a major physical change to the Bates campus, can be preserved and celebrated .

As we bid a sad, but fond farewell to everyone that graduates,
we look fondly on the year that has quickly come and gone, and we look forward to a long, relaxing, restful summer and we anticipate the return to Bates next fall.

SHORT TERM
A TIME FOR...

Before the month of May had even begun, before theses were handed in, before the cramming for exams ensued, the Bates community had a glimpse of the potential for Short Term. It was a Saturday soon after the unfounded Storm of the Century when Bates awoke to a beautiful, sunshine, blue sky, 70 degree day. Windows were opened, furniture was dragged outside, barbecues spontaneously emerged on Frye Street and people began to move about bare foot in the unrelenting snow banks. Deadlines, papers and other academic concerns were forgotten as students were reunited after what seemed like an eternity spent indoors. All anyone could say was, "This feels like Short Term."

Short Term 1993 fulfilled the promise that was made that day in March. As the stress of second semester melted away with what was thought to be permanent snow, there was a sense of release that allowed us to again explore and enjoy Bates. Keeping with tradition, Short Term '93 saw campus wide barbecues, a clambake at Popham Beach, intramural softball, a movie on the quad, Den Terrace parties, and, of course, Range Pond excursions with a stop at Dairy Joy on the way home.

Yet, every Short Term retains certain aspects that make it unique. Short Term '93 will be remembered for Flo's retirement, They Might Be Giants, Spam (the smallest brother of Pierce House), 90210 prom and graduation, and Cheers' Last Call. Unfortunately, as much as we tried to resist, Short Term was not timeless. Without warning, senior week was upon us and we now try to remember what became of the booze cruise, pub crawl, random naked runs, the champagne semi-formal, and midnight madness.

Short Term may have a reputation for slackness; some view it as a time when students are apathetic and faculty is frustrated and security is worked excessively. Yet, none of these negative beliefs express the true benefits of Short Term. After 8 months of intensive academics, after the snow and ice, there are 5 weeks to test boundaries, reach new limits, and most importantly, cement the friendships that define both the Bates community and ourselves.

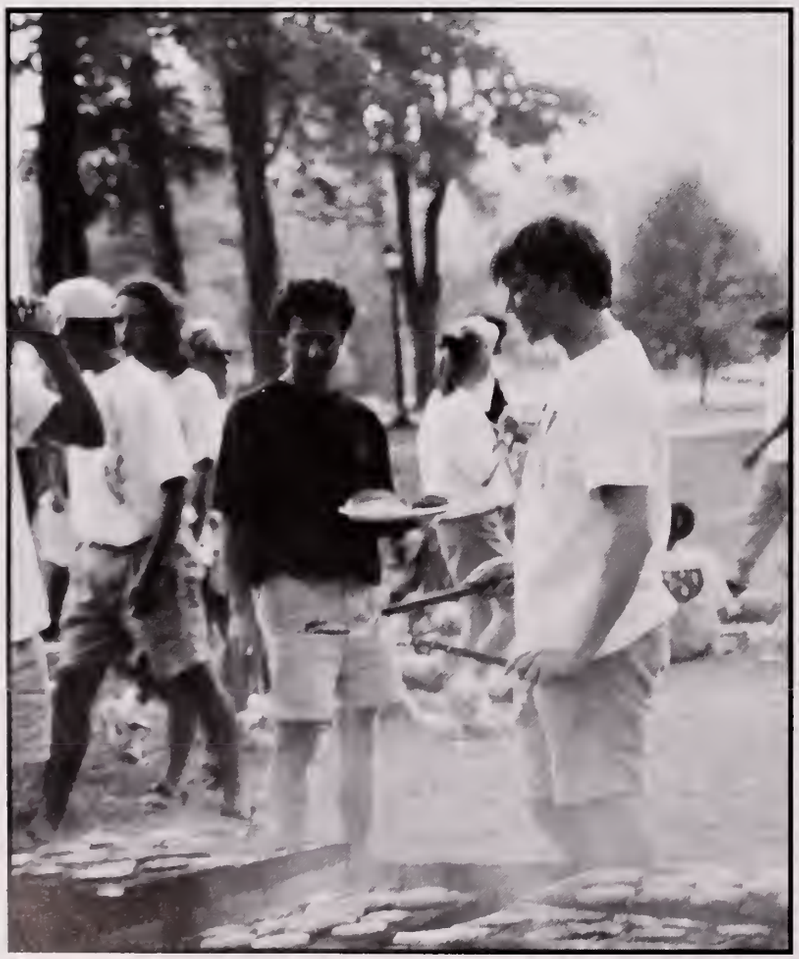
FANTASTIC CUISINE...

As is custom, STAC, the Short Term Activities Commitee for those of you not familiar with this Short Term Bates acronym, livened up the quad (and Library Terrace in cases of rain) with Wednesday night barbeques.

The entire Bates community came together to share a wide variety of carefully grilled hamburgers, hot dogs and gourmet veggie burgers while watching faculty member, children, and other members of the student body enjoy the long awaited spring weather.



With the warmer weather and slower academic pace, students found more time to engage in physical activities. This Short Term the Rand Field and the Softball field turned into the embodiment of good sportsmanship and dedication to physical fitness.

Intermural softball teams fought with good spirit and immense enthusiam through this season. In fact, these spiriits often followed the teams off the field to be continued throughout the remainder of the day

DISASTER STRIKES

Southern California Earthquakes

Two powerful earthquakes rocked Southern California on June 28, 1992, killing a child and injuring more than 300 people.

The first quake, which registered 7.4 on the Richter scale, radiated out from a remote stretch of the Mojave Desert and was felt as far as 600 miles away in Denver. Fires erupted, water systems ruptured and highways heaved. The most serious damage appeared to be in desert and mountain communities east of Los Angeles near the epicenters.

The second quake, about three hours later, was centered in the San Bernardino Mountains, about 20 miles west of the first trembler. It was measured at 6.5.

A 1988 U.S. Geological Survey report said there was at least a 60 percent chance within 30 years that the southern San Andreas Fault would produce the so-called Big One, a quake measuring 7.5 to 8 or more on the Richter scale.

Hurricane Iniki

Hurricane Iniki dealt a direct blow to Kauai, one of the Hawaiian Islands, on September 11, 1992, with winds gusting to 160 mph and torrential rain. It destroyed buildings and damaged many others on the island of more than 50,000 people, one official said.

Twenty-foot waves crashed over coastal highways and the island lost all power and telephone service even before the worst of the storm hit. Afterward, early damage reports came to state officials via two-way radio.

Hurricane Andrew

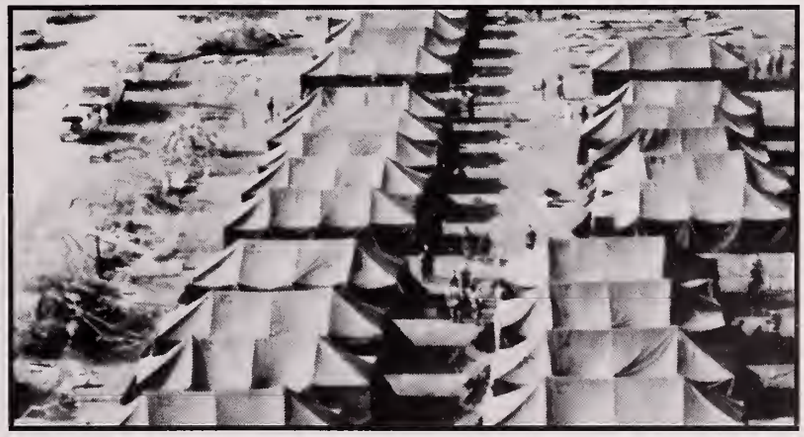
Hurricane Andrew struck southern Florida on August 24, 1992, with wind gusting to 164 mph and a 12-foot tidal surge that flattened many homes, uprooted trees, flung boats into the streets and wrecked an entire Air Force base.

Fifty-five deaths were directly or indirectly linked to the hurricane - 41 in Florida, 10 in Louisiana and four in the Bahamas.

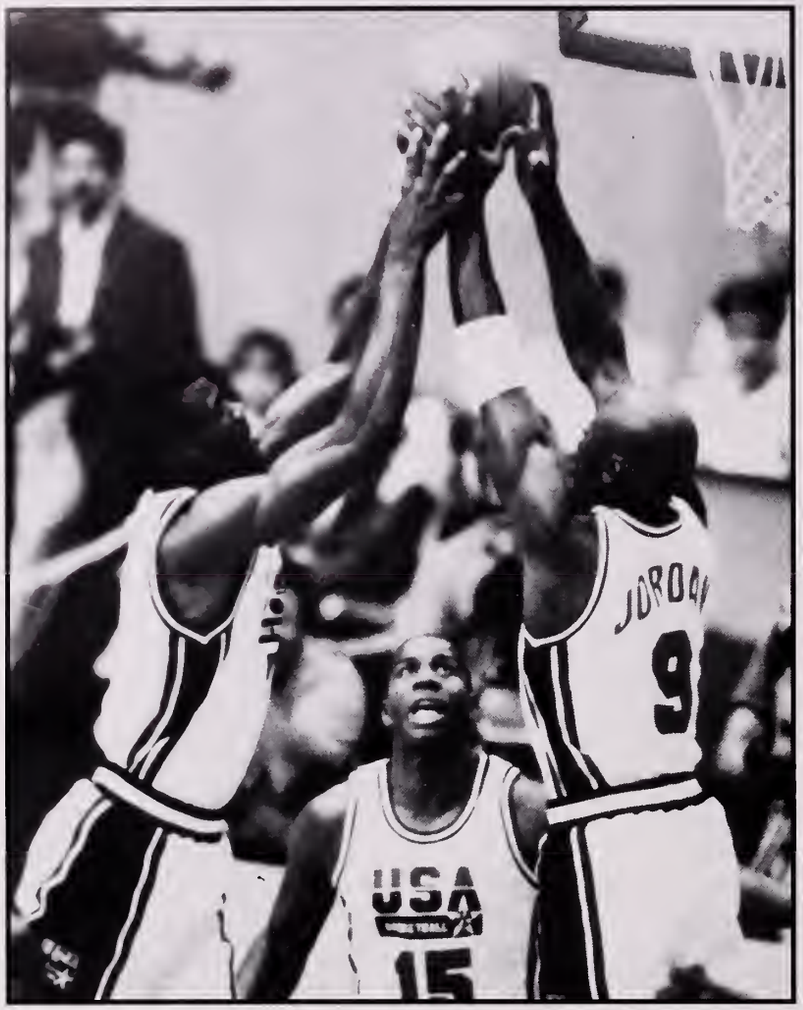
The hurricane's 54-hour U.S. rampage, the most expensive natural disaster ever in the country, caused damage estimated at $20 billion in Florida, $1.5 billion in Louisiana and $250 million in the Bahamas.

"It's like a bomb hit," said one Florida City resident, looking at the remains of the trailer park where he and his wife had lived.

Tent cities were set set up in Florida with room for 3,800 people.



In Sports



1992 Summer Olympics

An era of amateurism passed into an age of professionalism, and the Olympics were transformed forever, when professional athletes were allowed to compete in the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona, Spain.

The United States emerged from its two-decade Olympic funk, finishing only four behind in the closest medals race since America won in 1964 in Tokyo. Now it stands poised to rule the sports world in Atlanta in 1996 after arguably its greatest Summer Games.

U.S. Open

It was a new, improved Stefan Edverg who walked off the court in September with his second straight U.S. Open title, the world's No. 1 ranking and $500,000. This Stefan Edberg kissed the net cord in his quarterfinal match, kicked a ball, smacked the net and threw a towel. This Stefan Edberg even hurled the net after Pete Sampras buried a backhand service return into the net on match point, then fled to the side of the court to embrace his wife of five months, Annette.

Top-seeded Monica Seles also won her second straight U.S. Open women's singles title in September, defeating No. 5 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario of Spain 6-3, 6-3. It was the 13th Grand Slam tournament Seles has played, and her seventh victory.

Against Sanchez Vicario, Seles ripped through the first five games in just 18 minutes and closed out the opening set in 42 minutes. She began the second set with a service break and held for a 2-0 lead.

Seles, like Edberg, earned $500,000 for her second straight U.S. Open title and won her third Grand Slam tournament crown of 1992.

World Series

There's a new flag flying over Canada - the World Series pennant.

The Toronto Blue Jays took baseball's championship outside the United States for the first time ever, beating the Atlanta Braves 4-3 in 11 innings in Game 6.

After surviving more ninth-inning magic from the Braves, the Blue Jays won it all - and lost their loser's label for-ever - when Dave Winfield's first World Series extra base hit scored two runs with two out.

A cheering, chanting delirious sea of humanity flooded Toronto's city center on October 25. The glow from this win will keep Canadians warm all winter.

North American Free Trade Agreement

President Bush and the leaders of Canada and Mexico participated in a ceremony in October 1992 to spotlight an agreement designed to create the world's largest and richest free trade zone.

"This meeting marks a turning point in the history of our three countries," Bush said as Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney and Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari looked on. The three leaders watched as their trade ministers initialed the 2,000 page document that was negotiated in August 1992.

The NAFTA accord would create the world's largest free trade area by removing all trade barriers among the countries over 15 years. Bush said the agreement ultimately will create jobs in this country, but opponents said it could cost up to 550,000 U.S. jobs over the next decade.

Republican National Convention

President Bush appeared on large video screens as he accepted the presidential nomination during the Republican National Convention at the Houston Astrodome on August 20, 1992. President Bush and his wife Barbara shared a moment on the podium as the confetti fell during the final extravaganza.

Democratic National Convention

Presidential candidate Bill Clinton and his running mate, Senator Al Gore, held arms aloft and stood before a convention hall brimming with euphoria and confidence on July 17, 1992, in New York's Madison Square Garden. Exhilaration swept through the convention hall.

Bill Clinton Plays the Saxophone

Bill Clinton, sitting in with the band, turned out an impressive version of "Heartbreak Hotel" as Arsenio Hall gestured approvingly in the musical opening of "The Arsenio Hall Show" taping at Paramount Studios in June 1992. Hall said of the presidential hopeful's talent on the saxophone, "It's good to see a Democrat blowing something other than the election."

President Bill Clinton Inaugurated

The air filled with cheers as William Jefferson Clinton was sworn into office as the 42nd president of the United States on January 20, 1993.

For the oath-taking, Clinton chose a King James Bible given to him by his grandmother, opened to the Epistle of Paul The Apostle to the Galatians, Chapter 6, Verse 8. It read: "For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."

Somalia

Three months after the world woke up to one of the worst famines in history, food started to reach hundreds of thousands of Somalis.

More than a million Somalis have fled their homeland for refugee camps in neighboring countries, with the wealthier ones seeking safe haven in Europe, the United States, Canada and elsewhere.

Central Somalia is where the international community has concentrated its relief efforts, with airlifts to the towns of Belet Huenk Baidoa, Bardera and Hoddur, and airdrops to smaller villages in the region.

U.S. Troops in Solmalia

U.S. Marines arrived in Somalia on December 9, 1992, to assist in curtailing the wanton, widespread violence and prevent looting of relief shipments.

The troops are patrolling the meanest streets of Mogadishu with a soft touch. Children wave as they pass or run to shake hands with those who have come to help.

To provide safe passage for food delivery to starving Somalis is the goal.

Haitian Refugees

Was it polititcal persecution by the military or desperate poverty, as the Bush administration suggested, causing Haitians to flee their homeland and seek asylum in the United States?

Initially, the Bush administration accepted the refugees at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and heard their request for asylum. About 27,000 of them were denied asylum and returned to Haiti.

On May 24, 1992, President Bush decided that Coast Guard cutters would intercept the Haitians at sea and immediately return them to their country. The Haitians could apply for asylum only through the U.S. Consulate at Port-au-Prince.

Iraq

U.S. warplanes swept over southern Iraq on January 13, 1993, bombing selected military targets. The goal of the attack was to take out the radar and missile sites in southern Iraq that have threatened the planes patrolling the area.

Even if the attack did not make an impression on Saddam Hussein, "it will certainly make an impression on his ability to obstruct what we are doing here," said Rear Adm. Philip J. Coady.

Servicemen chalked "to Saddam with love" on a warplane aboard USS Kitty Hawk just before the air strike.

Yugoslavia

The territory of Yugoslavia for centuries was a battleground between the Austro-Hungarian and Ottoman empires. In 1918, the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes was declared, and in 1929 it was renamed Yugoslavia. The new country was torn by demands for autonomy by Croatias who opposed Serbian domination. This ethnic diversity has been a source of strife for centuries.

President Tito, who ruled from 1945 until his death in 1980, kept a tight lid on these internal ethnic rivalries. Since his death, however, central power has been eaten away by the feuding republics.

Inhabitants of the territory are confronted daily by the shelling, sniper fire and death of war. They take to the streets during the occasional ceasefire, pushing and shoving, trying to buy bread and other staples necessary to live. The war has left thousands dead and has sent more than a million fleeing and led to the creation of dreaded detention camps, likened to those of Nazi Germany.

On The Lighter Side

The Potato Kid

William Figueroa, 12 years old, a.k.a. the "potato kid", waited by a potato vender's cart outside the NBC studios in New York prior to his appearance on the "Late Night with David Letterman" show. Figueroa and his family were basking in his new-found celebrity, gained in June 1992, after he spelled "potato" correctly during a spelling bee and Vice President Dan Quayle did not.

Miss America

On September 19, 1992, 21-year old Leanza Cornett of Jacksonville, Florida was named Miss America. The previous year, she dropped out of Bates because she couldn't handle the cold weather.

H. Ross Perot

In May, Ross Perot was a potential president. The Perot Factor was reintroduced to presidential politics 11 weeks to the day after the Texas billionaire abandoned plans to run, saying he had concluded he could not win. Most analysts viewed his re-entry as a selfish attempt at redemption by a political novice who failed to realize what he was getting into and wanted to heal a wounded ego.

MTV Awards

Van Halen and the Red Hot Chili Peppers swept the ninth annual MTV Video Music Awards on September 9, 1992 in Los Angeles, CA.

The Red Hot Chili Peppers won the awards for breakthrough video, viewers' choice and art direction. Lead singer Anthony Keidis displays the MTV Spaceman trophy backstage.

The Bates College Class of 1993

During the first week of school, as we sat on a radiator in Pierce House, a fellow senior expressed his doubts about our upcoming year. "There's no way that we can be seniors, we're still freshman!" He went on to describe in detail our freshman center and the hours spent indulginig in TV and Super Mario Brothers. We certainly have come a long way...

Okay. So maybe we haven't changed all that much, but Bates certainly has caused some transformation in each one of us. The unofficial Bates rules of discipline: "Work hard, play hard, party hard" gave the class of 1993 the opportunity to see what we could do. Some of us questioned what exactly we were capable of doing, and whether we knew enough. Were we qualified to be seniors? Absolutely.

The class of '93 boasts the knowledge of Bates. We know what time to go to limited enrollment and when to wait in line for Harvest Dinner. We know every inch of The Blue Goose. We know where to sit in Commons or where to sit in the library (or know enough not to go at all). We boast academic leaders, sports stars, human rights activistis, wild partiers, but most of all, we just boast. And when we do, it is done out of class pride and the knowledge that we will leave our marks on Bates together.

Seniors 1993

GRADUATION 1993

Some people run for Senior Class President so that they can give this speech — not I! Preparing my remarks has been one of the most nerve-racking experiences of my college career. I do want to thank all of you who offered advice about what to say or who to quote. And though I know this will disappoint some of my classmates, I've decided to skip the Dr. Seuss lines. Instead, I'm going to draw upon a different narrative tradition.

I find myself thinking back to my first night on campus, back in August of 1989. I felt overwhelmed by the newness of the place and the situation. I wanted to do everything, meet everyone, and be everywhere. My mind raced with the questions first-year students all over campus were contemplating: What courses should I take? With whom should I go to breakfast? Would I make friends? — Okay, I suppose the fixation on making friends might just have been me.

I remember the moment my mother said goodbye and left me to become an adult on my own. She hugged me quickly, handed me a bottle of Advil and a tube of Ben Gay. "Be Careful!" she whispered, disappearing down the hallway. Now I was alone, with only some ibuprofen and aspirated sports cream, to brave this new world. Ironically, my mother's parting gifts came in quite handy this week.

My mother had tried to prepare me for the inevitable growing pains which would follow. She knew that I would have to face my own challenges and find my own rewards. Off on a fantastic journey, I was Alex in Wonderland.

In reflecting on my four years here, I realize that Bates has been a grand adventure. I have always been fond of Greek mythology, and its tales of epic struggles and heroic quests. Undergraduate life parallels, in significant ways, the exploits of many a classic heroic tale.

The hero's story is an exaggerated rite of passage, which almost always takes a familiar form. The hero is a separated form. The hero is separated from home, family, and community and is placed in a heretofore unknown world. Someplace strange and exotic, like, say... a quad in Smith Hall. There she encounters strange and difficult challenges, which provide the essential experiences that make her a hero.

Again and again, this pattern persists in the telling of any number of heroic adventures, whether it is Odysseus outwitting the sirens, or Hercules accomplishing seven superhuman feats. The hero, in meeting these seemingly impossible challenges, proves to herself that she is worthy and able.

Following the successful completion of her novel and dangerous tests, the hero returns home to the community which launched her, empowered by her experiences and now prepared to help society solve its most trying problems.

What, you might wonder, has this to do with our experiences at Bates? Like Dorothy in Oz, as first-years we were thrust into a strange land of enchantment, where we were expected to make our way with few familiar rules to guide us. We had to maneuver through bizarre rituals like limited enrollment and navigate the Pandemonium of a nightly meal in commons. Most baffling to us, the college novices, was the persistent question: "What's a cluster?" With time and experience, we managed to master the logic of the place. We were then ready to take on the rigorous challenges which comprise the "tests" faced by our hero.

For us, the demands were no less daunting than Dorothy's task to defeat the wicked witch of the west. We had to master a laboratory science, select a major, conquer upper level seminars, and produce a thesis. Anyone who has spent time struggling to narrow her thesis focus is not unfamiliar with how Hercules must have felt taming the hydra — each head, (or topic area), cut off only to spring back to life, demanding to be reckoned with.

On a more meaningful level, we face the same sort of dogged pursuit of an undefined goal that most heros confront. When Dorothy started down the Yellow Brick Road, she did not yet know the answers she sought, nor even how to formulate the questions. Instead, she placed her faith in a path, or process, which she presumed, if followed, would lead her to enlightenment. Lest we pity poor Dorothy, we might consider how simple her task was compared to our own. After all, the Yellow Brick Road was the only street in town. At Bates, we seem to have an infinite number of paths and intersections. Amazingly, we each seemed to travel on a slightly different path to reach this point together.

The 1993 Mirror

It is finally the end of May and once again, we have managed to hand in the entire yearbook on time. However, this year, the task of creating a yearbook for the Bates College community was made easier because of the large, energenic staff that the Mirror was lucky to have this year. For the first time in a long while, at most meetings we were not able to fit everyone into the yearbook office on the second floor of Chase Hall. With a loyal staff of about a dozen or so and a "part-time" staff numbering another dozen, we were able to produce the largest yearbook in the history of Bates College.

This year, the yearbook staff decided that our theme would be: "The more things change, the more they stay the same." This theme was adopted for the 1993 Mirror because of the many changes going on at Bates. The physical environment of the campus has dramatically changed this year with the new residence halls which were being built throughout 1992-1993 (The construction of the new dorms can be seen on pages 88-93).

Here at the yearbook, 1992-1993 has been a year of major changes. We decided to switch our account from the Taylor Publishing Co. and start to work with the Jostens Publishing Co. This has been a transitional year for us at the Mirror.

While myself and the yearbook staff were struggling to make deadlines, Anne was enjoying the Italian culture in Rome. Our photo editor also departed. Kathryn traveled to Greece and is undoubtedly learning the art of drinking Ouzo by the Mediterranean. Despite, these deserters, we were able to make this year's book the best ever.

I would like to thank everyone on the staff for working hard, but more importantly, for being the best group of friends an editor could have. This yearbook was not a chore, but an excuse to spend time with friends. Without the individuals listed on this page, this book would not have been possible.

It is now time to present the 1993 Mirror. We hope that the Class of 1993 and our other readers will enjoy this summary of life at Bates. Hopefully, this book will provoke good memories of Bates for many years to come.

As for the staff of the 1993 Mirror, we're outta here!

-Mark

In Aspen, at the other end of the 911 lifeline, you'll find Saab 9000s. Which day in and day out, on shifts around the clock, must prove themselves as the official patrol cars of that city's police.

In fact, for 14 years the Saabs used by both the Aspen and Vail police have contributed to the kind of response times any precinct would be proud of.

Saab 9000s are well suited for careers in law enforcement. They come with sprinted, yet reliable, 16-valve engines, road-hugging suspensions, plus such safety equipment as a driver's-side air bag and an anti-lock braking system. And, like all Saabs, 9000s feature a front-wheel-drive system that keeps even the Western Slope's legendary snowfalls from slowing the wheels of justice.

A reassuring notion if you happen to live in the Rockies. And food for thought when you're in the market for a new car, no matter where you live. See us for a test drive.
